

I like a rainbow of fruits & vegetables

fruits

apple
avocado
banana
blueberries
cantaloupe
kiwi
mango
papaya
peach
pear
pineapple
plum
watermelon

vegetables

dark green

beet greens
broccoli
chard
kale
spinach

orange & red

acorn squash
butternut squash
carrots
pumpkin
sweet peppers
sweet potato
tomato

other

asparagus
beets
cabbage
cauliflower
green beans
green pepper
zucchini

Let's try something new:

---

---

---

---

Thank you for taking such good care of me! I love you!

This project has been funded at least in part with Federal funds from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service. The contents of this publication do not necessarily reflect the view or policies of the USDA, nor does mention of trade names, commercial products, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. Government.

To learn more about the Vermont WIC Program, other Vermont health programs, and for more about feeding your child, visit our website at healthvermont.gov or call 800-464-4343. This institution is an equal opportunity provider.

Photos used with permission from Texas Department of State Health Services, the Louisiana WIC Program, and Vermont families.

fruits & vegetables

ages 6-12 months

Hello – It's me, your happy eater!
Did you notice? I am loving fruits and vegetables. Thanks for helping me eat my colors. They are so good for me.

Offer me a variety and let my appetite be your guide to how much to feed me.
You're the best!

tips on feeding me fruits & vegetables

When I can sit up without your support, at about 6 months old:

vegetables

- Start with a teaspoon of plain, pureed vegetables, such as carrots, squash, peas, or sweet potatoes. I will let you know when I want more. Just watch for my signals.
- Offer me vegetables once or twice a day until I get used to them. It might take several tries for me to learn to like them.

fruits

- Offer pureed fruits such as peaches, pears, bananas, and applesauce.
- Offer me fruit once or twice a day.

Offer a new fruit or vegetable for 3 to 5 days before trying another new one.

When I can crawl, at about 7 or 8 months old:

- Now I am ready to start eating food with small lumps in it. Mash a banana for my breakfast. For dinner, blend or finely chop vegetables you've cooked for the rest of the family.
- Your homemade baby food is just right for me. Make a big batch and keep small portions in the freezer to add to my meals everyday.
- Offer me fruits 2 times each day and vegetables 3 times every day. Sometimes I will eat a little less than you offer, and other times I will ask for more. Let my appetite be your guide to how much to feed me.

- I want to be at the table for family meals. While you're eating, I can practice feeding myself with my fingers. In addition to other foods, offer me:

- pieces of soft, ripe fruit, cut small, such as melon, avocado, pear or nectarine
- soft, cooked vegetables, cut small, such as asparagus, green beans, sweet potatoes or spaghetti squash
- I can choke on large pieces of food. When we eat together, I know you're close by and will keep me safe.

When I can stand alone and take a few steps, at about 10 or 11 months old:

- I am ready to eat most of the foods that you eat. You don't need to mash my fruits and vegetables any more, but cut them into small bites so that I don't choke. You may just need to cook mine a little softer or take my portion out before you add a lot of hot spices.
- Offer me fruits 2 times a day and vegetables at least 3 times a day. Put some black beans or peas on my tray for a snack. When you're having baked potato and broccoli for dinner, fix some for me. I like what you like!

If I say no to a fruit or vegetable, don't worry. Try it again another time.

- You may have to offer me a new food 10 to 15 times before I enjoy it.

I eat best when I can count on a regular routine.

- Try to feed me meals and snacks at the same time each day.

Offer me small amounts – I'll ask for more if I'm still hungry.

If you offer me juice, limit it to 2 to 4 ounces total per day.

- Give me 100% fruit juice.
- Give it to me in a cup.
- Avoid giving me sweet drinks like soda, punch, and other fruit flavored drinks.

